

It has been brought to my attention that the FCC is considering changes that may affect the FM radio signals or stations that currently broadcast K-LOVE Radio (a commercial free, listener supported christian radio signal) around the country. I don't understand all of the details but if a change in the status or priority of Low Power FM (LPFM) stations has the potential of forcing FM Translator services off the air I feel that it should not be considered at all. As an ongoing supporter of K-LOVE radio I feel it is a very important asset to people all over the country. With all of the, push the envelope, how much can I get away with, shock-jock and other unnecessary programming that takes place we must have a positive and encouraging alternative for ourselves and our children. I listen to K-LOVE Radio on 88.9 FM in Flint Michigan and can tell you that this station is a true asset to the community for everyone that listens to it. Thank you for this opportunity to express my opinion.
